THE LATE JOHN WILTON CUNNINGHAM.

John Wilton Cunningham, prominent among Western painters, died Thursday night at Camp Reliance, a health resort near Gan Antonio, Tex. The news of his death was received yesterday in a dispatch to his father, the Reverend J. W. Cunningm of No. 1414 Locust street.

Although the news was received with much sorrow by the many friends of the young painter, his death was expected by he were daily informed of his condition. Death was due to an affection of the lungs, from the effects of which Cunhis friends, was born at Louisville in 1868. He came to St. Louis in 1875. He attended the public schools of this city and later took a course in the art department of Washington University, where it was found he had skill far above his classmates.

After finishing his course he did much work for local newspapers, and soon after took charge of the art department of the olis Sentinel. He sought the highest in his chosen profession, however, and later embarked for Paris, France, where he journeyed to complete his education in the Latin quarter.

BIG DEMAND FOR WORK This success made demand in St. Louis for his work, and a local firm for a time had all they could do to supply the trade. After he returned from Paris, Cunning ham was engaged to paint the picture, which is now an admired work, and which Cunningham did much work at Jefferson City, where his paintings adorn the walls of the Governor's mansion. His paintings of former Governor Lon V. Stephens! and wife, and those of Governor and Mrs. Alexander M. Dockery, are considered masterpleces, made in the completion of a three-quarter likeness of Mrs. Lon V. Stephens for her St. Louis home, and which is an exact reproduction of the picture in the Statehouse at Jefferson City, While painting this picture, Cunningham, although harassed by the encroachments of the disease which caused his death, kept bravely to his task. He was forced to lay down his brush many times in the course of the work, but he refused to leave the city until the picture

At St. Louis, May 16, 1906. * An innocent looking resolution introduced by Philip Ganz of the Macon Republican, to the effect that the Committee on Credentials have authority to revise the list of members of the Missouri Press Association precipitated a sensation at the morning session of the Missouri Association yester-

W. O. L. Jewett of the Shelbina Democrat, speaking of the resolution, said:
"I do not believe in euphemisms or subterfuges. I am in favor of taking the bull by the horns on questions that do not admit of equivocation. There is not a memher present who does not realize the im port of the resolution introduced by Mr. Ganz, at the same time appreciating his action in not making it perso

"I move as a substitute to his resolution that the names of John A. Lee, of I. L. Page and R. B. Speed, be stricken from the oll of membership of the Missouri Press Association.

"There is nothing personal in my action, as at least one of the three I have always regarded as my friend. This association statements that have been made concerning these men in the recent boodle disclosures afford to further recognize them as members of this organization."

Jewell Mays of the Richmond Missourian following Mr. Jewell, said that no member of the Missouri Press Association tenanced boodling or dishonesty in any

An informal neeting of the co

as planned was carried through, not a member falling to prepare and read the papers assigned them.

At the morning session Ovid Beil of the Pulton Gazette read a paper on "The Responsibility of the Country Editor." Mr. beil pointed out the high calling of the editor, and the confidential relations he bore to the people, and the duty he owed to send nothing but a newspaper of high moral tone into the homes of his readers.

Ben F. Wood of the Laredo Tribune talked to the association upon "Up-to-Date Advertising." The practice editors have of leaving advertisements two and three years old standing in their newspapers, he especially deprecated as slouchy and caiculated to give the worst impression of a paper. Not only as to the date of advertisements, but to the manner and style of display did Mr. Wood refer. ADVERTISING DISCUSSED.

"Advertising from the Standpoint of a Country Merchant and Newspaper Man"

"Advertising from the Standpoint of a Country Merchant and Newspaper Man" was discussed by J. S. Morton of the Smithville Star. Mr. Morton cited instances of what advertising had done for two country merchants in mintville and the impetus the individual efforts of these merchants in the advertising line had done for the town in which they live, incidentally showing how others in different lines of business had profited because of the enterprise of two up-to-date citizens.

J. P. Tücker of the Parkville Gazette discussed "What the Publisher Owes the Advertiser." Among other profitable locas advanced by Mr. Tucker was that the advertiser must deal squarely with the newspaper and his patrons in substantiating his published claims as to the quality of what he has in stock, if he wishes to get the full benefits of the money he puts in the columns of a newspaper to tell of his wares.

"A New Mode or Laughter," a sattre in verse, was the subject of a paper read by D. F. Thompson of the Eldon Eagle. It was cleverly written and referred cleverly to Missouri politics.

L. P. Hoberts of the Memphis Democrat discussed "Does the Senastional Pay in the Country Newspaper" Mr. Roberts took the position that to publish unverified items of news of a sensational character was detrimental to the standing of a country newspaper and harmful to readers. The publication of news of such nature except for good cause he thought harmful.

"Politics in the Association" was the subject of the paper which W. R. Bowles of the Greenfield Advocate read. The Missouri Press Association, he declared, was not the place to exploit or to further the achemes of any person or set of persons, but to further the mutual interests of the members of the newspaper profession generally.

"The Ethics of the Newspaper Profession" was the subject of a paper read by D. E. Campbell discussed the duties of newspapers to themselves, to each other and to the public. These are some of the extracts from his paper:

"The Deth of human duty is not illuminated with electr endeavor has been able to outstrip the newspaper.

"The best lecturer in the world cannot compete with the morning paper.

"I believe the newspaper is more useful in a republican form of government than the description.

a republican form of government than the Constitution.

"The press is the only trustworthy means of communication between the people and their official servants.

"The newspaper scrutinizes the record of every one who would be a public servant so closely that a really base man is seldom elected to office.

"The newspaper is the calcium light which, when turned onto a public official, shows up his crookedness as plainly as the soubrette's wrinkles.

shows up his crockedness as plainly as the southerties wrinkles.

"The splendid antihoodie campaign of Joseph W. Folk would not have been possible had it not been for the work of The St. Louis Republic.

"The modern newspaper is the greatest growth of our civilization.
"If we country newspaper men cannot make Presidents we can at least assist in making a Governor. making a Governor.

The various committees made final reports.

W. R. Painter of the Committee on Credentials, reported the membership of the association as 181, the members being from seventy-five counties in the State, from St. Louis and Kansas City.
The Committee on Resolutions recommended and the association unanimously adopted the following resolution:
SUPPORTING WORLD'S FAIR.

express in strongest terms its appreciation of the invitation of the Louisiana Exposition Company to meet in the Administration building, and for the hospitable entertainment extended us during this meeting. We reiterate our pledges of support, and assure the officials of the Exposition that in the future, as in the past, the press of Missouri will use its best efforts to promote the Exposition in every way within its power. We congratulate the Exposition Company on the progress made in the great preparation, 39 per cent of the construction work being now finished."

The thanks of the association was also extended to the Miscouri Commission for the courtesies extended by it; to the railroads for favors shown; to the outgoing officers for their faithful services, and to the street railway companies for the complimentary transportation given to the editors during their stay in St. Louis. The action of the World's Fair Commission in planning an exhibit of Missouri journalism was also commended and approved.

The final action of the association was the election of officers to serve during the year. The following were unanimously elected:

T. T. Wilson, the new president of the Missouri Press Association, is 42 years old and has been a Missouri editor since 183, when he came to Tarkio and purchased the Avalanche. He came to Missouri from Colorado, where he published the Greely Sun. Previous to his Colorado newspaper venture Mr. Wilson edited the Saline Valley Register in Kansas. He has been an enthusiastic member of the Missouri Press Association for several years, and has served as second and first vice presidents. Politically, Mr. Wilson is a Republican.

Before adjournment it was decided to have the next annual meeting of the association in St. Louis, May 16. Walter Williams announcing that at this time the press association of every State and Territory in the Union and the International Journalistic Congress will meet in St. Louis upon invitation of the World's Fair officials. Boston, Aug. 28.-Letters have been re ceived here from Monastir, European Tur-key, indicating that the attempted assas sination of Vice Consul Magelssen just filteen days after the assassination of the Russian Consul, M. Rostkovski, did not surprise the English speaking people there.

For a long time it has been understood that 'the native proprietors, feeling that their investments were insecure under Turkish rule, have been working to secure foreign intervention and of late rumors of foreign intervention and of late rumors of a plot involving the assassination of Con-suls have been frequently heard. In fact, reports had become so well grounded that the Consuls had considered the advisability of asking their Govern-ments for national guards, but had delayed taking definite action.

MITCHELL SEEKS TO AVERT STRIKE OF COAL MINERS.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL

Workmen in Missouri, Kansas and Arkaness

Chicago, Aug. 28.—To avert, if possible, a strike of 16,000 bituminous coal missis in Missouri, Kansas and Arkaness, John Mitchell, president of the United Missouri Workers of America, began a secret/conference to-day with other union officials and the representative coal operators from the West

Negotiations between the operators and the union officials directly interested were broken off several days ago, and as the time drew near for a decision, the union men having demanded an adjustment by September 1, the matter was referred to the national organization.
With President Mitchell in the con to-day are Secretary Treasurer W. B. Wil-son and Vice President T. L. Lewis. Pre-

the miners' union from the district affected are also here.

Nothing definite was accomplished to day, however, but the conference will continue to-morrow and a settlement is probable. The scale and prevailing conditions of work are much the same in the Wester district as through the Illinois and Indian coal fields. The wage scale basis was arrive at without a dispute of any consequence but, according to advices received by President Mitchell, the settlement of pay is dead work brought the negotiations to standatil, and later to suspension.
